DEFENDANT-INTERVENORS’ NOTICE OF FILING

Defendant-Intervenors Karla Perez, et al. (“Defendant-Intervenors”) make this filing to inform the Court that the plaintiffs in NAACP v. Trump, No. 17-cv-1907-JDB (D.D.C.), and Trustees of Princeton University v. United States, No. 17-cv-2325-JDB (D.D.C.) (the “D.D.C. Litigation”), filed a response yesterday to the defendants’ stay motion acquiescing to the defendants’ request for a stay “with respect to new applications for DACA or advance parole.” See Ex. 1. As set forth in the Federal Defendants’ filing to this Court yesterday, Dkt. 310, the United States had moved in the D.D.C. Litigation for a full or partial stay pending appeal of that court’s order vacating DACA’s rescission. Specifically, in order to avoid the possibility of conflicting orders, the United States sought a stay “at least insofar as the court’s Orders go beyond the preliminary injunctions in parallel litigation by requiring DHS to begin accepting both initial DACA requests from individuals who have never before been granted deferred action under DACA and also applications for DACA-based advance parole.” Dkt. 310, at 1. The plaintiffs in that action have now acquiesced in that more limited stay request.

If Judge Bates adopts a limited stay, in accordance with the parties’ common position, that would eliminate the sole ground on which Plaintiffs in this case have predicated their request for preliminary injunctive relief. In the August 8, 2018 hearing before this Court, faced with questions from the Court regarding Plaintiffs’ six-year delay in bringing suit, and the fact that, whatever injury Plaintiffs may have sustained from DACA recipients who already applied for and received deferred action under DACA has already occurred, Texas identified only one basis for its purported continuing, urgent need for a preliminary injunction: that Judge Bates’ order regarding new and advance parole applications was scheduled to come into effect on August 23, 2018. See Dkt. 302 at 134-35 (“[T]here is no [other] injunction that requires DHS to grant new DACA applications and new applications of advance parole; however, we know in 15 days, that’s going to change . . . ; therefore, Your Honor, we’re asking for preliminary injunction before August 23rd in order to prevent those harms.”); id. at 12 (same); id. at 79-80 (“[A]t our initial scheduling conference, we asked for relief by July 23rd because that was initially the date that the D.C. court judgment was going to take effect. Now, we are here today with a new shot clock . . . August 23rd.”); id. at 133-34 (same). Plaintiffs’ unexplained six-year delay in challenging the DACA Memorandum makes absolutely clear that present DACA recipients do not cause Plaintiffs irreparable harm. Because the only purported prospective harm Plaintiffs complain of stems from grants of new DACA and advance parole applications, a stay of that portion of Judge Bates' order would eliminate the only basis Plaintiffs identify for preliminary injunctive relief.
